

International Cooperation Centre

icc@

Intern student from Konstanz University of Applied Sciences, Germany

Create and Coordinate International Relations

Intern student from Konstanz University of Applied Sciences, Germany

@ICC

Please tell us about yourself?

Adrian Flaig: Hello, my name is Adrian and I live in Konstanz (Germany). I am studying mechanical engineering at the HTWG-Konstanz.

Is this your first time in Thailand?

- Actually it is the second time in the land of smile. I have already been here 5 years ago for vacation.

What are you doing here in KMUTNB?

- In cooperation with the TFIC (Thai-French Innovation Center) and the Faculty of Engineering, I got the opportunity to write my bachelor thesis in the field of Electrochemical Corrosion Testing.

Can you share with us your experience at KMUTNB, how did you find the facilities?

- It seems to be very well organized and everything you might ever need is provided on the campus (e.g. shops, food, doctor, hairdresser, and pharmacy). The campus is lively, there are events and markets.

What do you like in Thailand?

- First of all it is the people, who are very peaceful, respectful, friendly and helpful. Also the food (a bit spicy) is delicious and the culture and landscape is wonderful.

What made you choose the internship at KMUTNB?

- I was thinking about having some abroad experience at the end of my studies. The TFIC seemed to be the perfect choice, since knowledge of the United States, France and Thailand come together in a well-equipped laboratory.

Will you recommend Thailand and KMUTNB to your friends in Germany?

- Sure I will. I learned a lot, everyone was very kind and I was well integrated into the group in the laboratory.

Would you like to come back here?

- Yes and I definitely will. If you really would like to learn something out of it, I would recommend the KMUTNB to offer a Thai language course and more international exchange like discussions or lectures in English. Anything else was great.

